Refinement pass

One controlled pass on the provisionally approved direction. Palette, cream ground, typography, hierarchy, branding, compositions and the wrap round the corner are unchanged. The work is in the execution of the painting.

FOLIAGE

- Leaves redrawn as tea leaves: short stalk, elliptic blade widest at the middle, acute tip, fine teeth, slightly uneven halves, lit from the top left.
- Every leaf grows from a stem; alternate placement at irregular spacing, sizes and angles varied, the odd leaf missing. No disconnected teardrops.
- Shoots end in two young leaves and a bud — the Ceylon plucking standard.
- Three depths kept (far pale, middle, near), each leaf painted at a single strength; overlaps within a depth darken only slightly, so no muddy patches.
- Crisp anti-aliased edges throughout; no blur anywhere.

FLOWER, PODS, SIDES, POUCH

- Flower painted with the same brush as the leaves: flat washes, crisp shadow shapes in the same sage, lifted midribs; no airbrushed gradients.
- Pods slimmer, matte, near-black brown with fine lengthwise ridges and tapered ends; the curled hooks and gloss removed.
- Text panels protected: leaves behind type drop to a fifth of their strength and stems are left out there; growth moved beside the brewing steps.
- 100 g kraft pouch: the existing label shape and proportions kept, the painting rebuilt for it.
- Presentation under flat, neutral light; artwork shown flat with dielines.

Before committing to print

- Paper texture. The paper grain is part of the artwork, at one consistent strength on every panel and on the label; it is not a separate effect. Proof it on the real board, because uncoated stock adds its own texture.
- Matte. Run a matte press proof (soft-touch or matte aqueous) on the intended paperboard. The pale far leaves and the cream ground are the first things to shift.
- Gold foil on “Vanilla” only. Supplied as a separate spot layer. Judge it on a physical proof before committing: foil weight and how it sits against the cream.
- Lid deboss. Optional blind deboss of the lid seal, subject to tooling cost; the carton works without it.
- Brand and certification assets — must be swapped before print. The Vanilla Shop logo and the Ceylon Tea Symbol of Quality lion in these files are vector traces made for mock-ups, not the approved masters. Replace both with the original artwork: the logo from the brand master, the lion from the Sri Lanka Tea Board's licensed artwork.
- Barcode and statutory text. Carried over from the current carton; verify every number and line before release.
- Colour. The artwork is RGB at 508 dpi. Convert to the printer's profile and check the sage and the near-black pods on a contract proof.
- Margins and dieline. Type sits at least 8 mm inside the folds. Artwork bleeds 3 mm. Confirm the dieline against the converter's latest cutter before plating.
